Ambient IT ... Strategic Planning

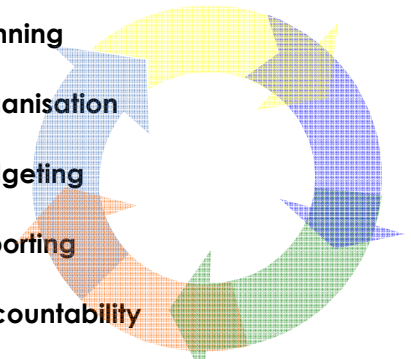

STRATEGY: is the process which integrates the goals and objectives of an organisation into a single cohesive achievable plan. It must carefully consider the perceived strengths and weaknesses of the organisation as well as the anticipated external and environmental influences such as market and economy.

IT STRATEGY: is the planning process whereby an organisation is able to consider the future with a view to aligning their use of technology with the goals and objectives (the mission) of the organisation and therefore determine the appropriate role for technology and its resources within the organisation. This is essentially the identifying IT opportunities (ways to use existing or emerging technologies) that may assist in gaining competitive advantage, reducing cost, increasing revenue and improving efficiency.
